

About the Author

Prudy Taylor Board is an award-winning author/editor. She has had more than 1,000 articles published in newspapers and magazines, authored 5 novels and 11 nonfiction books. She's been a reporter/feature writer and has edited newspapers, magazines and newsletters and worked as assignment editor and beat reporter covering police and the courts for WINK-TV (CBS) and WBBH-TV (NBC). She even did a stint as public information officer for the Lee County (FL) Sheriff having seen both law enforcement and the judicial system from both sides.

A native of Florida, Prudy loves her home state and her nonfiction books have explored different areas and attractions throughout the state. She's also written about travel in Florida and the Caribbean. Her novels are set in Florida. In her journalism career, she's interviewed murderers, politicians, first Ladies and CEOs, all of which she considers grist for her novels.

ArcheBooks Publishing
www.archebooks.com

From the Author of Murder a la Carte, Book 1 of the Clyde Colby Recipes for Murder Series, now comes a paranormal mystery...

A Grave Injustice

Corey Harris is haunted. Haunted by new relationships, haunted by old relationships, but mostly haunted by dead relationships. A GRAVE INJUSTICE is one scary read! Prudy Taylor Board turns the heat up page after page, and you won't be able to rest until you read the last word.

Don Bruns
Author of Jamaica Blue and South Beach Shakedown

I loved it!!! A GRAVE INJUSTICE grabs you from the very beginning and holds you with a firm grip until the very end. Prudy Taylor Board knows how to write, her style is captivating. Absolutely a page turner. One of the best paranormal mysteries I've read!

Noreen Renier
Psychic detective and author of A Mind for Murder
Featured on Court TV's Psychic Detectives

Corey Harris, crime reporter extraordinaire, does not waver as the real world and the world of spirits collide with explosive force in this fast paced thriller. Prudy Taylor Board has seamlessly woven the world of spirits into the real world in this brilliant and explosive paranormal mystery. A GRAVE INJUSTICE has it all: mesmerizing characters, a compelling plot, a pace so fast that you won't be able to put it down, and a paranormal touch that feels all too real.

Patricia Gussin
Author of SHADOW OF DEATH

In A GRAVE INJUSTICE, Prudy Taylor Board has crafted a delightful paranormal mystery. She eases the reader into the supernatural element in such a way as to make it totally believable. She swings comfortably between Corey's job as a newspaper reporter in the present and the World War II death of Karl Von Brett. Thanks to well placed geographic details, the reader is introduced to another character, the city of Fort Myers, Florida. Corey's feisty relationship with Ben Crawford, her editor, adds another level of tension to the solving of this fascinating mystery.

Martha Powers
Award-winning author of Death Angel

Lies, murder and deception, sex, love and trust. Prudy Taylor Board's new paranormal mystery, A GRAVE INJUSTICE has it all. Flawless transitions between time lines, identifiable characters with realistic dreams hopes and insecurities, keep her audience riveted until the climactic ending. A novel of supernatural suspense!

Graeme Johns
Author of the international thriller, Situation Sabotage

ISBN-10: 159507-185-7
ISBN-13: 978-159507-185-9

ArcheBooks
Publishing

A Grave Injustice

A PARANORMAL MYSTERY BY

Prudy
Taylor
Board

...it was
...from the officials at
...air Base where
...ctors reported that
...body was found, reported
...a suicide. Officers in
...ge are withholding official comment, citing national security issues. One anonymous source reports the incident may be related to the recent crash of a B-25
bomber during a training flight, where eight crewmen were killed.

US $28.99
Canada $34.95

UK £18.99

Excerpt

Corey went into the kitchen and immediately wished she'd put on her terry cloth robe because the kitchen was frigid. Shivering, teeth chattering, she headed for the refrigerator to get a glass of milk. She was pouring the milk when a wave of nausea washed over her. From a distance, she heard the glass pitcher break on the kitchen floor, felt the milk splash her feet...

...and found herself in the rec room again. But this time, when she looked out the window, she recognized the tall pine tree and the scrub oaks surrounding the copse. It was the dead spot in her lawn. Then she and Karl were standing hand-in-hand on a grassy mound overlooking one of the runways. The motors of a B-25 flying overhead suddenly stalled.

Ob, God, Karl groaned. They can't be more than a thousand feet up. They don't have a chance.

She clutched his arm.

As she and Karl stood paralyzed with dread, the plane spiraled toward the ground. A fireball erupted skyward as the doomed bomber struck the runway nose first. The intensity of the crash was so great the plane split into three sections. The air was filled with noise—the sound of the collision and the sections of the plane striking the runway, the crackling fire, the scream of sirens. The smell of fire and smoke and something else—the cloying stench of burning human flesh—saturated the air.

It took an eternity before a crash crew was on the scene. As she and Karl watched, the rescue teams retrieved one, two, three...eight bodies.

She felt Karl shudder next to her, sensed his fear building, but all she could think of was a toy store with blood in the aisles and bodies strewn about like rag dolls. Her mother who wouldn't open her eyes. Her father who wouldn't answer...