Detective Lt. Dennis Marlock (Ret.)
Author of How To Become A Professional Con Artist & Founder of Professionals Against Confidence Crime

This complex and ever-twisting thriller is torn from the headlines of actual events and interviews with victims of romantic larceny—an all-too-common crime that often goes unreported and unpunished.

A flamboyant swindler who calls himself Anthony Abruzzi wines and dines unsuspecting women from one end of the country to the other, seducing them into marrying him within days of meeting him. Yet just before the lavish whirlwind weddings are scheduled to take place, he disappears, absconding with whatever assets, meager or mighty, his victims possessed.

However, when he makes the mistake of jilting and bankrupting a brilliant designer, Angie Reynolds, Anthony's fortunes are about to be reversed. With the help of detective Joe Vensure, Angie meticulously hunts Anthony down, following his trail of broken-hearted and devastated victims.
